

BRELLA EVENT SITE OVERVIEW (1/2)

When you have created and completed your profile on Brella, you get access to the event page. We have gathered some basic features to help you with using it.

In the picture, you can see the event page's main menu. The contents of the sections are explained in the text.

PEOPLE

All attendees can be found here. Here you can easily see your top matches based on the interests and intents chosen during the registration process. Also, you can see the recently joined attendees (Newest) and can bookmark people interested in follow-ups or suggest a meeting post-event. You can also use the Filter to find people per interest and intent to explore the list of people you can meet with.

From the People's page, you can also suggest meetings to others whether they have common interests or not. You can connect with anyone who has open available meeting slots in their profile. Select a profile, choose an available time, and send a meeting request to start the discussion.

Networking hours are limited, so remember to be active in sending meeting requests.

When you receive a meeting request from a fellow attendee, check the invitation. When you see that the request is right and meaningful for you, accept the meeting request. If not, please take actions accordingly (Decline or Reschedule).
